AMERICAN NOTE SETS ALL THE FACTS BEFORE ENGLAND

London, who think it pays the way for a more vigorous interest on the part of the United States in the various proposals looking to an assertion of the rights of neutrals.

Diplomats from neutral European countries thought the correspondence between the United States and Great Britain might develop a standard of usage that would benefit all neutrals.

The only report, which up to late tonight Ambassador Page had made since presenting the note, was as to the tone of the British press, which he thought was reasonable.

Keen interest is manifested throughout the capital as to the reply of Great Britain, which probably will be formally transmitted through the British ambassador in Washington.

American Note in Full.

The Secretary of State in the American Ambassador in London.

Department of State.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31, 1914.

The present condition of American foreign trade resulting from the various and detentions of American cargoes destined to neutral European ports, has become so serious as to require a candid statement of the views of this government.

You will therefore communicate the following to his majesty's principal secretary of state for foreign affairs.

"Do Not Judge Harshly."

The government of the United States has shared with growing concern in the large number of vessels laden with American goods destined to neutral ports in Europe, which have been seized on the high seas.

This expectation seemed to be reached by the note issued by the British government, which states that the British government has no objection to the rights of neutral nations.

It is therefore a matter of deep regret that, though nearly five months have passed since the year began, the British government has not materially changed their policy.

Policy Not Changed.

The government of the United States readily admits the full right of a belligerent to search and seize on the high seas the vessels of neutral nations carrying goods or other neutral vessels carrying American goods.

fuel supply is inexhaustible. But other comparisons, showing what an enormous quantity of coal is wasted in the process of mining, inspire soberer reflections. In the first place, a great deal of coal must be left in a mine in the form of supports, as a measure of safety, and other vast quantities are lost in the form of slack. Some progress has been made in recent years in the commercial production of briquettes, but it will be a long time before an appreciable percentage of the coal slack brought to the surface can be utilized in this way. Progress is being made, too, in the utilization of various by-products of the oil wells. For instance, petroleum gas can be used for making gasoline—a new process which promises to add substantially to the profits of the business.

Doubtless in time all of these problems will be worked out. One reason why they have not been solved before now is the lack of the spur of necessity. In other countries, where natural resources are limited and where everything dug from or grown in the ground must be utilized in the largest possible degree, human ingenuity has applied itself more thoroughly to the problem of avoiding waste.

But this is a land of tremendous natural wealth, and Americans are accustomed to skim the cream and let the rest go. It is their attitude not only toward mining and petroleum, but toward forestry, farming and every other industry which has to do with the extraction of wealth from the soil. Fortunately, though, they are beginning to realize that there is a limit to all good things, and the result is that some of the most sincere conservationists are the men at the head of these industries.

WAR ON THE LOBBY

THE legislative lobby in Colorado has long been a nuisance, as it doubtless is in every other state. But during the last two sessions it has become something worse; it has developed into a serious menace to honest, efficient legislation. This is due to the insufficiency of the rules for keeping the lobbyists in their proper place, and the laxity with which such rules as there are have been enforced. If the evil continues to grow through the next session as it did through the last one the lobbyists will actually rule the assembly.

Under the rules of the House and the Senate certain classes of individuals are admitted to the privileges of the floor. These include former members of the legislature, judges and a few others who occupy, or have occupied, presumably exalted stations. Let no one be so guileless as to assume that none of these gentlemen have become lobbyists. A good many of them avowedly earn their daily bread in legislative sessions by buttonholing members in behalf of, or in opposition to, pending measures. And not having been restrained, they have become decidedly aggressive. Not content with keeping in the background and making their solicitations unseen, they even sit in the seats of members, interrupt speeches and carry on their work on the floor while sessions are in progress.

Senator Elliot of this district has already begun a systematic effort to curb the lobbyists. He has written to most of the members of the Senate asking their support for an amendment to the rules, which he proposes to offer, excluding the buttonholers from the floor and limiting their activities to committee meetings. This would be a sensible and proper procedure, and it is gratifying to know that it is apparently endorsed by a majority.

Any individual interested in pending legislation has a perfect right to present his case, but he ought to present it to the appropriate committee, and, if he wishes to talk with individual members, do it at some other time and place than in legislative sessions. The spectacle of a lot of professional come-on men, some of them undoubtedly paid for their services, running up and down the aisles of the Senate and House, interrupting speeches and seeking eagerly to influence the proceedings, is nothing less than disgraceful.

Through years of evolution the time came when the body automatically prepared itself for a fight when the mind became inflamed with anger.

We have advanced far along the path to civilization since the days of the cave man, but we have not yet got to the point where we don't want to grab a club when we become angry.

When a man gives way to anger, the mind unconsciously telephones along every nerve to every muscle in the body.

"Get ready for a fight."

And here is what Professor Cannon says happens:

The breath of the angry man quickens because the body anticipates a struggle, sends a generous supply of oxygen to burn off the waste collected in the muscles, and so the man breathes deeply and rapidly.

Most of our work is done by the use of carbonaceous matter which is stored in the muscles in the form of glycogen," says the professor. "This glycogen, made principally of sugar, gradually disappears as the muscle does its work, breaking up into lactic acid."

And so the muscles, expecting a fight, get out for more sugar and its manufacture begins, and the heart begins pumping, harder and harder.

The capacious blood vessels of the abdomen are vigorously contracted, the blood thus expelled flows into other regions, causing increased pressure in brain, lungs and heart.

If the angry man fights he works off this energy. If he does not he is more than likely to "feel bad" for several hours after the fit of anger.

Many persons are made positively ill by anger. Falling in an opportunity to fight in a spell of anger the average person "works it off" either by an outburst of profanity or abuse, by clenching the fists or stamping the feet, or simply by walking the floor and scolding.

But in any event a man makes a fool of himself every time he becomes angry, and a truly wise man never loses his temper, police and self-control.

He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

WEALTH AND STRENGTH

From the Chicago Tribune

"Four billions and three hundred millions of dollars is the estimated value of the crops of 1914; pure wealth sprung from the soil, clear gain, solid, substantial."

The mere thought of the new wealth ought to be a factor in our business "psychology" which is gaining steadily in confidence and cheerfulness. The country is in fact rich. We are our greatest customer, but back of us hiding anxiously for our surplus are the richest countries of Europe.

We have money, we have material, we have energy, opportunity and peace. There have been losses and there is suffering. Adjustments will have to be made in commerce and industry. But the country is basically rich and sound and strong. If we all fully realized how rich, how sound, how strong there would be a forward movement which quickly would wipe out present hesitations. We should begin to spend normally, to plan and work normally.

This change is sure to come. Already there is optimism, but optimism with its eyes on the future. We can afford to bring our confidence into the present, and the country as a whole needs greatly that this be done. We have passed through a world crisis without losing a man. Twenty years ago we would have been lucky to keep aloft at all. The gain in our security is tremendous, and we ought to be conscious of it and acting energetically on its inspiration.

One thing we ought to avoid, and that is an excessive economy. Waste, expenditure, out of proportion to means are bad as always. But well judged expenditure, normal living, in other words, is within the ability of most Americans, and at this time is, in a real sense, a duty.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN IN OFFICE

Frances Freeman Lewis

Fears that the home will be neglected if women enter public life are not well founded. The holding of public office, especially, has been looked upon as a menace to the home. But Dr. Katherine B. Davis, commissioner of colleges of New York city, points out, many women are already in public life, and, practically speaking, holding office.

"I know personally," says Dr. Davis, "women who as secretaries are holding down public offices—know more about the work than the man who is elected to the office. They hold their places from administrative to administration and keep the office together and I've heard them praying that the next man elected wouldn't know much about it, because they could run things so much better without his interference."

Now if women have the hard work to do, why not let them have some of the honors, too? Office holders in any event constitute but a small proportion of the population, and if a few of these were women it would not make any great inroads upon the home. When women fill public office as effectively as Dr. Davis and some others have done, it would be well if there were a few more of them. Why shouldn't women be as free to enter public life and to hold office as to enter business?

AS TO THE MANN ACT

From the New York Sun

We should think that even the putative father of the Mann law would now be among the loudest to call for its revision.

When was there ever anything more monstrous than the perversion of this statute, intended for the protection of the weak and helpless of the female sex, into an instrument by which women of craft and guile can procure the assistance of the United States government in the blackmailing of weak and foolish men?

LET'S TRY THE MENTAL CURE

From the Wichita Beacon

One of the ways to bring back prosperity is to quit talking about business depression and dull times. More than two-thirds of our business depressions like our diseases, are illusory and come from mental rather than actual causes.

Quit talking war and talk business. Let's boost prosperity for all we are worth.

THE YEAR 1915

No year which we have had in the last century will find it easier to please the public and retire with every evidence of popularity than the year 1915.

This is because it follows the year 1914. It would be an extremely difficult matter to avoid improving enormously on the year which has just passed over us.

However, the new year has even greater prospects. It can very easily become the champion year of the new series. By stepping the European war and throwing all the firearms in creation into the ocean in a previously selected spot of great depth the present year can become more famous than 1215, 1776 or any other of the eminent spots in the Christian era.

By holding Mexico down to one president, providing a new brand of magnetless baseball, and passing a law providing that a politician who sells hard times for political reasons shall be hanged by the neck until greatly embarrassed for breath, the new year will also give profound satisfaction.

Indeed, if 1915 is benevolently inclined it can fill each of its 365 days with a good deed to a suffering humanity, all of which good deeds have been overdue for the past century.

The public awaits the action of the present year in all these matters with much suspense. However, its course in other ways can be easily predicted by even a busy league prophet.

In January, the Chicago Federal league and National league magnates will resume each other with terrible slaughter. In February, the railroads will attempt to increase business by raising the prices some more. In March numerous visitors to the San Francisco exposition will telegraph home for funds, owing to a slight miscalculation in planning the trip. In April Harry Thaw will file a writ of some kind or other.

In May the war bulletins will seriously interfere with the securing of necessary information by the baseball fans. In June a large number of football stars will descend 2,000 miles aspic from our leading universities into jobs. In July the peace society will deplore the fact that the United States has put and another shot gun as a defense against possible invasion. In August a large number of capitalists and others who went so copiously about hard times last year will buy 1915 automobiles.

In September the Mexican government will shoot across the United States border at each other and President Wilson will shake his head watchfully. In October vast numbers of New York tourists will come home from the United States, which they will have discovered during the summer in November the football championship will be claimed by the eastern team, which has most successfully avoided contact with the Illinois university team and in December it will be discovered that in grabbing too pugnaciously for trade during the general obituary exercises in Europe the United States has gotten itself very thoroughly disliked.

Many other things at present unsuspected will happen in 1915. This is what makes us look eagerly forward to it instead of lying down wearily and dying to save the trouble of booting it through 365 more days just like the last bunch. It is the unexpected which keeps men hanging onto this sphere with teeth and nails.

Year 1914 Points to Decrease in Marriage Fewer Divorces Also, According to Courts

Marriage licenses issued by the county clerk's office during 1914 fell below the number in 1913, according to figures compiled yesterday. Applications for divorce numbered 167, as compared with 188 for 1913. Marriage licenses issued in 1914 numbered 504, as compared with 512 in 1913. The total number of births reported for the year was 427, and the total death from all causes numbered 462. A big percentage of the deaths were nonresidents who had come here for their health.

June was the busiest month at the marriage license bureau, 76 licenses being issued. Those seeking divorce preferred May, when 19 applications were made. The largest number of births for any month was 51, in August.

and the largest number of deaths was 55, in February.

The district court forged ahead of the county court the last year in the divorce business. A few years ago the county court did the bulk of the divorce business. In 1913 there were 27 applications for divorce in the district court and 91 in the county court. Last year the district court drew 134 divorces cases to 53 in the county court.

FORMER SPRINGS MAN SEES ACTIVE SERVICE

W. A. J. Bell, With British Service Corps, Writes of His Experiences

Captain W. A. J. Bell, son of Dr. W. A. Bell, formerly of Manitou, who is serving in the British service corps, has written some vivid word pictures of life in the trenches in Belgium in letters to his father, which have been received by J. E. Lundstrom of Colorado Springs. Captain Bell is well known here, having spent most of his early life in the Pikes Peak region.

The service with which he is connected has charge of taking supplies of all kinds, including ammunition, to the troops, and is considered a most dangerous branch, being subject to both artillery and cavalry attacks from the enemy.

Following is a letter from Captain Bell, dated November 18:

I write in a farm house in which we are established and if things go on much as they have been doing, that is to say, if all this fighting ceases itself into a sort of mere operation, we shall probably stay here for some time. Here we are settling down into a sort of routine for the supply of food to the many units fighting in this neighborhood.

Our work consists of trekking off with all our wagons and big lumbering draft horses to a convenient point where we load the wagons with supplies, sometimes from the trains, sometimes from piles of stuff by the roadside, and then we take these loads off in different directions and deliver them to the fighting units, returning to our farm with the empty wagons afterwards, ready to repeat the operation next day.

We have had a few very long days at this, mixed up with endless hanging about and delays in cold wind and rain, but other days like today have been short, easy and sunny.

The whole thing is most interesting to me. These quaint old towns rumbling and rearing with the movements of endless troops, with wagons, Red Cross ambulances, trains of loaded and long strings of enormous motor lorries pressing and hurrying along with glaring headlights after dark; the roads more busy in the night than in the day; everyone busily bent on his own duty, entirely oblivious to the troops with whom he is rubbing shoulders.

We live in apparent peace and plenty and carry on our same civilian duties in a country showing little evidence of warlike disturbance. Everyone is normal, and the people plow in the fields and keep their shops as usual except for the fact that they are deprived on account of the war of certain things they much enjoy, such as sugar, tobacco, etc., which formerly enough the soldiers are not short of. In fact, although the people are generous to the soldiers, it is the people who beg titbits from the soldiers, not vice versa.

This state of calm we enjoy on account of the battle line being immediately in front of us and miles away—the front several miles away. We hear the guns all the time and see the flashes of shells bursting and often we hear a good deal of rifle fire, but otherwise when on our farm we might just as well be at peace. We get an official bulletin of news every day and very quickly also the English daily papers and it is from these sources that we hear of other than the war what is going on.

There has been a good deal of rain and I hear the trenches are simply mud wallows, and some of the fellows have been there about three weeks; when they come out for a few days' rest they are simply solid with mud. They then get fresh clothes and the old ones are thrown away like cakes of mud.

There are a great many spies and bogus refugees about. Also a great many real refugees. An official notice last night said that all troops were going to be supplied with warm clothing for the winter. My kit and everything is most satisfactory. Our quarters are very comfortable and food ample and good. We often go long stretches without meals and get on all right. I find bread and cheese most sustaining and excellent. It contains bulk which is the great thing.

The extraordinary "army dog biscuit" is most nourishing and I like the taste. At the farm we get bacon, meat, jam, tea and butter and everything.

We have seen a number of aeroplanes the last day or two, mostly ours flying about. We watched one flying over the fighting line yesterday and being fired upon over and over again. We kept seeing little puffs of smoke appear in the air around it, showing where the shell had burst, but they did not bring it down. It seemed to fly about quite undisturbed. Apparently they are awfully hard to hit.

The mails work extremely quickly and well and I have received many letters.

Poor Arnold on account of his great height and weight has had a hard time of it, but I being small and used to a miscellaneous existence much enjoy the extraordinary comedy we play and am quite fit and most happy.

Best love to you both.

(Signed) W. A. J. BELL.

Following are extracts from a letter written by Captain Bell on November 25:

I went over yesterday to see a village a few miles off which was certainly a sight worth having seen. It is

OLD DODGE OF HOIDUPS PROVES UNSUCCESSFUL

Messenger Sent to Deliver Package, and Carrying Change for $20 Bill.

Retreats in Time

What the police believe to have been an attempt at a holdup proved unsuccessful last night when a messenger boy who had been asked to bring change for a $20 bill became suspicious at sounds from within an apparently unoccupied house. The boy was delivering a package for the Paris-Wood opera house drug store and was sent to 13 South Chestnut street, following a telephone order. He found the house vacant and the door open. When he walked up on the porch he heard whisperings from within and immediately fled. The police returned with him a short time later but the house was empty.

This scheme was tried with success several months ago, the police say, and they have issued a warning about night deliveries in which considerable money is concerned.

Our Wish and Our Resolve for 1915

We find it is awfully easy to make wishes as well as resolves, don't you?

But to be in dead earnest in the former and have strength to carry out the latter is where the shoe pinches.

MAKING A WISH is very much like the bestowal of a KISS, although the operation differs, but they are both made from a desire or as a MATTER OF FORM.

A great many times it is communicated with PLEASURE and from THE HEART, then again the transmission is made with a good deal of REPUGNANCE and AVERSION. Yet when on the receiving end you are hardly competent to know whether it is the REAL THING or no, especially the WISH.

IN OUR CASE IT IS QUITE DIFFERENT and we can explain, too, WHY OUR WISH IS THE GENUINE ARTICLE.

IT'S BECAUSE YOU HAVE BEEN GOOD TO US IN THE PAST YEAR. IT'S BECAUSE WE FEEL YOU HAVE MADE US ONE OF YOU, THAT WE ARE IN CLOSE SYMPATHY WITH EACH OTHER, THAT IT IS OWING TO YOUR GENEROSITY THAT WE ARE HAPPY TODAY.

Then why should we not be in dead earnest when we say:

The Big Brother and Little Sister

By A. E. W. MASON

This is the first expression of opinion on America's part in the war by a famous member of a prominent family. The class of world wonderers has and long ago passed on to the next world. The war in Europe is this new wonder, but wonder only in its destruction. Americans the whole people who are making it history this year and doing so by their progressive spirit and generosity and humanity.

Alfred Edward Woodley Mason, M. P., the son of the late Lord Alfred, was born in 1862. He is a member of the House of Commons and has been a member of the House of Lords. He is a member of the House of Commons and has been a member of the House of Lords. He is a member of the House of Commons and has been a member of the House of Lords.

We have known so familiar with stupendous things that we can hardly see them in a true perspective except by a comparison. We do not get the full effect of the war until we see it in the light of the past.

In this, the children of the world do not appear that any school teacher could have predicted the first of the war. People were quite content with it. There were some who were of the world and others who were of the world.

It is a fact that the world is a very different place than it was a few years ago. The world is a very different place than it was a few years ago. The world is a very different place than it was a few years ago.

The world is a very different place than it was a few years ago. The world is a very different place than it was a few years ago. The world is a very different place than it was a few years ago.

Six weeks ago, one will have a hard time to find a man who will not be a member of the House of Commons. Six weeks ago, one will have a hard time to find a man who will not be a member of the House of Commons.

Ocean Freight on Cotton Increases Since War Began

GAINESVILLE, Tex., Dec. 31.—The highest ocean freight rates for cotton from California to European ports since the outbreak of the war range from 55 cents to $2.83 per hundred pounds.

Before the war rates to Liverpool, Havre and Bremen were approximately 45 cents per hundred pounds. Rates to Genoa, 5 cents, and to Gothenburg and other Scandinavian ports, 50 to 60 cents. Present quotations to these ports are:

Liverpool $1.00 per 100 pounds. Havre $1.20 to $1.25. Bremen $2.00 to $2.25. Gothenburg $2.50. Barcelona and Genoa $1.25.

For many years previous to the war the highest ocean rate for cotton to any European port was 60 to 65 cents per hundred pounds and rates as low as 20 to 25 cents were recorded. Average rates have ranged from 40 to 45 cents.

Since the outbreak of the war, the highest ocean rate for cotton to any European port is now $2.83 per hundred pounds. The highest rate for cotton to any European port is now $2.83 per hundred pounds.

Her'es Wishing You a Happy New Year

We are selfish enough to hope it may bring more prosperity to the coal operators and dealers here than has the last year. Especially during the last nine months, the local coal business has been very unsatisfactory. The demand has been so light it has been impossible to employ any considerable number of miners or to give those employed steady work. This has affected not only the men engaged in this work but of course their employers and all of the merchants of the city. The excess temperature for the year is something over 600 degrees. In view of this, and of the mild winter last year, we should have several months of severe weather ahead of us. Let us hope we have it now, rather than spread out over the summer, when we want to show our visitors what the Colorado mountains offer to pleasure seekers.

Whenever winter comes, we will be prepared to take care of your needs; either with lignite, bituminous coal; or with wood. Help us as you can conveniently, however, by keeping your bins full.

WOULD GIVE PRESIDENT AUTHORITY TO PREVENT EXPORTS OF WAR SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Congressional action to vest the president with power to prohibit the export of war supplies was urged before the House today by Representative Tamm of Iowa.

The question of neutrality is not the only question involved here, he said. The question of self-defense is the paramount one. It can no longer be held that there is no possibility of this country going to war or being involved in European entanglements.

Armstrong and Marshall found the fear over when they arrived back from the Philippines. A party of 100 men and 100 women were still in the Philippines and they were sent to the United States.

AMERICANS DISCOVER Cannibals in the Marquesas Islands

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—Photographs of a cannibal dance around a steaming kettle were brought back from Nukunua in the Marquesas Islands, near Tahiti, by D. H. Armstrong and Marcus M. Marshall of Los Angeles who arrived today on the liner Moana from Papeete.

The victims reported by Armstrong and Marshall were prisoners captured in a tribal war. A party of 100 men and 100 women were still in the Philippines and they were sent to the United States.

AN OLD RECIPE
TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded of brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray, also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home which is messy and no blessing.

Now this is a simple task at any drug store for Williams' Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Every bottle used this all famous recipe because no one can possibly tell that you have darkened your hair as it grows so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

NEWS FROM EVERY CORNER OF THE WORLD

WANT TO PLAY SOME REAL ICE HOCKEY? PROSPECT LAKE IS IN TIP TOP SHAPE

Issuing a sweeping challenge to any set of ice skaters in the region who believe that they can play hockey, the Prospect Lake hockey team last night announced that it was ready for anything. Prospect lake is in fine condition for skating and a hockey rink has been marked off for the players. The Prospect lake team announced last night that it would be ready to play at 3 o'clock today.

Prospect lake is in better condition for skating than for many years. It is the largest place in the region for this popular winter sport and the snow has been cleared off of a large portion, under the direction of B. B. McReynolds, superintendent of the water system and himself an ardent skating fan.

The lakes in Monument Valley park also are in good condition. Hundreds of skaters have been taking advantage of the ideal weather conditions for moonlight parties during the last few days. The lakes will be crowded today, it is believed.

Report on Brush Estate Is Filed, Showing Baseball Big Money Maker

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—A statement of profits of the National Exhibition company, the corporation which owns the New York National League stadium and the Polo grounds, is contained in the report of the estate of the late John T. Brush, filed today. During the three seasons preceding Mr. Brush's death in 1911 and 1912, the total net profits of the company, the report shows, were $470,000.

The statement of Mr. Brush's total estate at $1,000,000 and the net value of $470,000, the report shows, is based on the fact that the company's assets at the time of Mr. Brush's death were valued at $1,000,000 and its liabilities at $530,000. The report also shows that the company's assets at the time of Mr. Brush's death were valued at $1,000,000 and its liabilities at $530,000.

Mr. Brush owned the company since its formation in 1907. The report shows that the company's assets at the time of Mr. Brush's death were valued at $1,000,000 and its liabilities at $530,000. ## Fordham Starts Work on Largest Athletic Stadium in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The largest athletic stadium in New York will be a reality in some time, it is believed. The Fordham University is planning to build a stadium of 100,000 seats, and it is expected that the work will be started in the near future.

All of the trees have been removed from the site and the ground is being cleared. The stadium will be situated on the corner of 125th street and the Hudson river. The work will be completed in 1916.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR FOR FANS; YANKEES ARE REALLY SOLD

Bill Donovan Will Be Leader; "Price Was Somewhere Near $500,000"

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The sale of the New York American league baseball club was concluded and ratified today. The new owners are Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Jr., and Captain Tillinghast L. Huston, both residents of this city. Neither of them would state the price paid for the franchise and players, nor would Frank Farrell or any of the other club stockholders who were parties to the sale. President Ban B. Johnson of the American league stated late today that the deal had been closed to the entire satisfaction of the former club owners, the purchasers and the officials of the American league. After the sale had been completed Frank Farrell said: "I am very much pleased with the price I got for my holdings in the club. While I do not care to say the total amount paid for the franchise and players, everyone knows the price I asked was $500,000. You know I am a good stickler and I generally get what I want even if I have to wait for it."

Bill Donovan will be manager of the team. Colonel Ruppert, who is to be president of the club, turned all inquiries over to Captain Huston, who is to be secretary-treasurer. The captain said: "The deal just put through does not include any players other than are now the club's property. We are going to purchase players and among those we have already secured are Pipp and High of Detroit, Rehg, Boston; Miller, St. Louis, and Jog Berger, Chicago. In addition to these several other clubs in the league have promised to help out and we will go into the market for the best that money can buy."

Cleveland Wants to Land 1916 Olympics

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 31.—To boost Cleveland as the site for the international Olympic games originally slated for Berlin, city officials have outlined plans for the erection of a stadium at Brookside park with a seating capacity of 100,000.

Cleveland college appeared to be the strongest team turned out at that institution since 1910. They were of an even size, fast and good weight. Their defeat by Boulder for the first time in years did not take the heart out of the eleven and they came back and played better football every game. Their defeat by Boulder for the first time in years is just one of those merry little jests that Clem occasionally pulls. The fact is that the Tigers haven't won from Boulder for seven years.

MEAT OF THE FUTURE

From Farm and Breeds. We have learned to speak of the breeding of rabbits with some contempt. But in German rabbit-growing it is an increasing business and the demand for rabbit meat has tripled the price in five years. In Reubner, an eminent scientist associated with the German Agricultural association has published an analysis which shows the flesh of the rabbit to be the most nourishing of all meats. The rabbit is a considerable element in his value. Rabbit fur is very extensively used as a substitute for the fur of wild furs, and is sold under such names as ermine, coy and the like. It took the Angora goat several years to produce a coat of fur as good as that of the rabbit. The rabbit is now becoming a champion and medal winner in the fur show meeting.

WHAT DOES 1915 HOLD FORTH FOR THE SMOKE?

RING STARS MAKE POOR MANAGERS, IS VERDICT OF FANS

Brainy Pilots of Boxers Are From Other Lines; Tom O'Rourke Leader

How many professional boxers were ever successful managers? Few and very few. Retired and ex-fighters can be found in many walks of life, still some have made good as managers. Probably the most prominent and the most successful of the lot is Tom O'Rourke. He was at one time a fighter himself and a fairly good one. Aside from his managerial duties he was a time instructor and an excellent trainer. Under O'Rourke's management little George Dixon and Joe Walcott made thousands of dollars. Tom was also one of the shrewdest matchmakers in the game. His latest attempt was somewhat of a failure with Al Palmer, of whom he had great hopes at the start.

Sam Fitzpatrick at one time was quite a good middleweight. He is an Australian and boxed in this country under the cognomen of the Australian Comet. He managed George (Kid) Lavigne for several years and was quite successful. Jimmie Carroll, who fought Jack McAuliffe that memorable fight at the old California club in San Francisco for the lightweight championship made just one attempt as a manager and made good. He managed and trained Bob Fitzsimmons when Bob defeated Jack Dempsey in New Orleans. Since then Jimmie has turned his hands to many different things.

Some Examples. Billy Nelson, who managed Battling Nelson, was never a professional boxer, but an amateur. His experience with Willie Ritchie is also well known. But the man who really brought out Willie as Frank (Molly) McDonald, the man who trained Joe Gans for his fight with Bat Nelson at Goldfield some years ago. McDonald was an amateur boxer himself at one time.

Harry Eyles, who at one time was manager and trainer of Ritchie, was a very clever amateur in his younger days and later tried his luck as a professional, but for some reason or other failed to make good. Harry is considered one of the few high class trainers of the country, and also has quite a reputation as a referee and manager.

Tommy Burns, the champion heavyweight, also tried his luck as a manager when he took George Meers under his charge, and later touted Al Polkey as a coming champion. Jimmy Dunn is one of the few high class managers of today. He was in his younger days one of the classic boxers in the country and retired as a boxer with an exceptionally long and clean record. Dunn is also an excellent instructor, a high-class trainer and a fine manager. The chip brothers, George and Joe, and Tom McMahon are with him at the present time.

Jimmy Dunn manager of Johnny Kilbane, is a protégé of Jimmy Dime and Dunn uses a similar system to Dime's work in his training. Dunn has been fairly successful with Kilbane and was a clever featherweight professional in his day. Tom Jones, a Teacher. Sam H. Jones is a teacher of Kid Williams, a professional basketball player, and is successful as a manager.

Tom Jones, another successful manager, was at one time a school teacher, but never a boxer although in his younger days he was quite a fighter. Jones suffered with Billy Walker, Al Wolcott and Jess Willard in well known to most of the boxing fans of this country. Scott's Monteth manager of Johnny Dundee, was a waiter in a restaurant before he took Dundee under his care. But his natural attitude for his present work made him a very successful manager.

Joe Levy, who has had the care of the boxer, was a waiter in a restaurant before he took Dundee under his care. But his natural attitude for his present work made him a very successful manager. Delaney in Laundry. Delaney worked in a laundry and was a manager of a team. He was a very successful manager and was a very successful manager.

BY A WOMAN WAITS

Here today the two-reel "When a Woman Waits." A young woman, up her own business for her mother's brothers and sisters. A pathos story, a story with heart interest and human sentiment. A story that you will like. Winifred Greenwood, E. A. Coxen, George Field, Charlotte Bustin and an all-star cast of "American" players interpret the story that speaks and is well worth while.

"The Playhouse" is a two-reel feature with Mignon Anderson and Morris Foster in the leading roles. It is comedy drama in which a farm wagon has the laugh on an automobile and the young lovers and an irate father. It's a dandy picture and can't be beat.

"Our Mutual Girl" is also with us today and meets Mary Wilson Preston, the most prolific of all woman artists. The many trying experiences she has with certain act editors are vastly amusing and many a smile is brought forth during the exhibition of this film.

To close the year 1914 and herald in the new year 1915 we wish everyone and you, and you, and all of you a Happy New Year and a prosperous one. So all hail the new year—1915.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"

"Bringing Up Father," Gus Hill's elaborate musical comedy production of the famous George McManus cartoon play, founded on what is conceded to be the most successful conception of criminal character in the history of journalism, comes to the Opera house January 1 for a limited engagement of one performance. The tour of this organization last season may be termed triumphal. Never before, since the inception of traveling theatrical companies, has any play scored such a tremendous success; never before has a theatrical producing manager so perfectly prescribed amusement according to the public's demand and taste. Of course, it goes without saying that it is not likely that any play has ever had the unlimited advertising that this one has had through the daily cartoon series that is run in several hundred newspapers in the United States and Canada. The original success was undoubtedly attained by the artist, George McManus of the New York American staff, when he conceived the eccentric idea of "Father and Mother," however, it satisfies to say that the most conservative theatrical critics and even the "Muckrakers," who control practically every first-class theater in the country, hand the "pennant" to "Bringing Up Father" as the financial and artistic success of a decade, which means that the play has earned that enviable title, for you cannot fool the American theatergoing public into patronizing an unworthy attraction as they have patronized "Father." This season Mr. Hill offers the attraction complete with new and startling novelty, new book, music, scenery and costumes, all of which will surpass that of last season. If such a thing is possible, "Bringing Up Father" will undoubtedly assume its place with "Ben Hur" and "War of the Worlds" as a standard American play that will never wear out. Seats are now on sale.

SCHOOLS LIKE DENMARK'S FOR THE UNITED STATES

That the Danish Folk high schools for "grownups," which have made possible the recent wonderful development in rural Denmark, can be successfully transplanted in modified form to the United States, is the conclusion reached by H. W. Focht of the United States bureau of education in a bulletin just issued. Mr. Focht has studied both the Danish schools and American rural conditions at first hand, and he believes that what the Folk high schools have done for rural civilization in Denmark they can do for the United States.

The place to introduce the new type of school is the so-called "backwoods" of the South Atlantic highland, according to Mr. Focht, embracing all of West Virginia, 42 counties in western Virginia, 25 in western North Carolina, and four in western South Carolina, 25 in northern Georgia, 45 in northeastern Alabama, 45 in eastern Tennessee, and 36 in eastern Kentucky. It is not that these sections are necessarily behind other parts of the country in education, though much illiteracy prevails, but that the peculiar local conditions demand some institution like the Danish schools.

There are already a few Folk high schools in the United States, established by Danish immigrants. While grave difficulties have been experienced by these schools, Mr. Focht is of the opinion that they are due to certain special causes that could easily be overcome in a real attempt to adapt the Folk high school to American life in the mountains.

"The Folk high school spirit has emanated the agricultural population of Denmark," declares Mr. Focht. "It has at least made country people the peers of their city brethren. They have become leaders in affairs, in production, in distribution, in politics, chiefly because they have learned to think for themselves and to act independently of the industrial classes."

"In the United States there is great danger of going to the extreme in the immediately practical and technical. The work of special schools is in danger of focusing too much on making two blades of grass grow where one grows before, on teaching girls to cook and keep house according to sanitary regulations and the like.

These things are all necessary and must be taught in the schools, but they are utterly inefficient to make us a really great agricultural nation. It was not the local agricultural schools and household economics schools that have made Denmark a great scientific agricultural nation, but the Folk high schools. We need such schools in the United States; schools that would teach a greater love for the soil, that would help us to measure the good in life by spiritual standards, and not by man-made rules; schools that would help us to rise above the limitations of locality and state, and teach an understanding of the national and even universal in the United States."

TREE SPIRITS KILL A SCOFFER

C. E. G. is usually in the wine world Magazine.

In the Straits Settlements and Malay peninsula both the Malays and Chinese believe that many trees have their "selves" or "souls" in them. Such trees are easily recognizable, owing to their having "loss" or "incense" sticks placed either close to their roots or in a fork between the branches—the offering of the Chinese—or decoration consisting of bits of various colored cloth, the Malay token of devotion.

One such tree is still to be seen in Stamford road, the night thoroughfare of Singapore, and in connection with this particular tree a curious accident happened only a few months ago. A rich young man, a son of a Straits-born Chinese, named Lee Khia Guan, who had been educated in England at Cambridge university, was taking a stroll in the evening with a friend, and when passing this tree noticed a lot of joss sticks burning at its roots. With a laugh at the superstitions of the uneducated coolies who had placed the incense there, he kicked the joss sticks over and trampled on them. He then rejoined his companion and they went for a walk around the esplanade. As they walked along his friend remonstrated with him for his action, pointing out that, after all, though he did not believe in it himself, there "might be something in it," and, for his part, he preferred to leave such things severely alone, as he had heard of cases where accidents had happened to persons who interfered with such trees.

Lee Khia Guan ridiculed the idea of such a thing, and pointed out that no

European or educated person believed in "haunted" trees, but only the ignorant coolies. Three days later, while Lee Khia Guan was on his way to town in his motor car, just as he passed under this tree a huge branch fell right across the car, killing him on the spot and smashing all the front part of the car. When examined, the branch showed no trace of the ravages of white ants, and there seemed to be no reason for its having broken, as there was no wind that morning.

THE JANUARY SCRIBNER

A new novel by John Galsworthy, "The Freelanders," begins in the January Scribner. He calls it a "long comedy of the English country-side."

It gets its title from a most interesting family, the Freelanders, whose members are identified in various ways with English life. The daughter of one who is an author and the son of another who is an idealist and reformer, promise to furnish plenty of romance.

There is an unpublished essay by Robert Louis Stevenson in the January Scribner. It was written for a young man who had asked him about his life work, and contains his reflections and opinions "On the Choice of a Profession." It is full of wisdom.

of passages of quiet cynicism, of the author's well-known philosophy.

Richard Harding Davis was in the cathedral at Rheims during its bombardment, and he has written an account of his experiences and impressions for the January Scribner. "We picked our way among the broken arms, hands, wings, halos of statues that for hundreds of years, to the glory of God, had faced the elements."

E. Alexander Powell tells the tragic story of "The Taking of Antwerp" in the January Scribner. It is a story of terror, of the flight of thousands of helpless noncombatants, of the effect of the shells of the giant German cannon, of the heroic fighting of the Belgian soldiers. It would be hard to find a more instructive picture of the horrors of war in all their aspects.

"War and the Artist" is the subject of an article in the January Scribner by Rufus Fairchild Zogbaum the painter. It is illustrated with many famous paintings of war in various parts of the world.

As showing the possibilities for tree growth in regions where irrigation has to be depended upon, it is pointed out that Boise, Idaho, has as many as 91 different kinds of ornamental and shade trees.
